

ANNOTATION OF QUERY COMPONENTS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods, systems, and articles of manufacture that may be used to create and share annotations for query components, such as query conditions, in an effort to share domain knowledge, are provided. The annotations may be created by users with particular domain knowledge and may contain information useful to other users when building queries including the annotated query components. As an example, an annotation may indicate a particular format or syntax an associated query component should take. For some embodiments, a replacement to the associated query component may also be suggested.
